

Marnie Buller – Head of Technical Development, Swisse

Marnie has been with Swisse Wellness for 5 years working in the areas of new product development & innovation and over the past two years heading up the technical team to manage all technical aspects of product launches, formulation development, product optimisation and implementation of new technologies and applications to Swisse's product range.

Marnie spent 18 months implementing the launch of Swisse's products into a number of Europe and Asia markets as part of Swisse's strategic partnership with Procter & Gamble and Teva Pharmaceuticals, and currently focuses on product ranges for Australia, New Zealand and China.

With a background in food science and nutrition and extensive project management experience in a number of sectors, Marnie leads her team to develop the best quality products, ensuring efficacy optimisation for maximum health benefits to Swisse's customers.

