

Dr Matt Cahill – R&D Leader, Dow AgroSciences ANZ

Dr Matt Cahill is the R&D Leader for Dow AgroSciences ANZ where he is responsible for the development of agricultural products for the ANZ markets.

He's been with Dow for 19 years and previously worked at Rothamsted Research in the UK and prior to that with NSW Ag based in Narrabri.

His academic research was focused on the ecology of insecticide resistance and he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Entomological Society in 1998.

