AusAg&Foodtech Summit 2017

With more than $3.6 billion invested globally in the agritech & foodtech space, AusBiotech recognises the importance of supporting Australian companies, researchers and entrepreneurs in this expanding industry. The AusAg&Foodtech Summit 2017 will create a national forum facilitating interaction between researchers, technology developers, start-ups and investors ready to capitalise on a growing opportunity.

The AusAg&Foodtech Summit 2017 will focus on “turning science into business”, bringing together industry, researchers and investors to explore recent advances in technology, new opportunities for growth, quality improvements and productivity gains.

The program will include keynote presentations from local and international experts, opportunities to hear from companies at various stages of development and panel discussions answering key questions across five major themes:

THE INVESTORS

What do investors look for? What are the factors involved in making investment decisions?

THE CUSTOMERS

What types of technologies are agribusiness and food processors looking for? How do I communicate with my end user?

THE FRAMEWORK

How do you navigate the complicated world of IP, risk, finance and regulation?

THE CREATORS

How can researchers and entrepreneurs better engage with commercial entities on the road to successful commercialisation?

THE ENABLERS

What programs are available? How do I find and access funding?

AusAg&Foodtech Summit 2017 Highlights:

The two-day summit will examine issues critical to the development, access, investment and adoption of agritech and foodtech:

- Investment trends and opportunities
- Translation, capital access, commercialisation and market drivers
- Company success stories demonstrating emerging technologies and research
- The marketplace, a dedicated exhibition space for networking and partnering opportunities
- Agritech and foodtech in the digital age

Who attends AusAg&Foodtech?

In 2017, 150 – 200 delegates are expected to attend the Summit including:

- Investors and agritech and foodtech investment experts
- Industry enablers including incubators, accelerators, service providers and government representatives
- Technology creators such as researchers, developers and academics
- Customer and user groups, seeking access to innovation in agriculture and food science

AusAg&Foodtech Summit Marketplace

Take the opportunity to showcase your product, service or research project to the delegates at the AusAg&Foodtech Summit Marketplace.

Breaking away from the traditional exhibition, the Marketplace will be set up for the duration of the event and will be the location for 'Dinner @ the Marketplace', an extended networking dinner following the Summit sessions on Tuesday 29 August.

The set up will enable delegates to have in depth conversations with potential collaborators and investors about technology, research and projects.

Each dedicated area in the marketplace includes space with custom printed signage, a high table and stool.

Marketplace displays are available as an add-on to any Summit registration or Partnership Package for only $500 (incl. GST).

Space is limited so be sure to get your application in secure your spot.

Each Marketplace Display includes:

- 1m wide x 2.48m high flat display wall with a 970mm x 1200mm full colour digital printed panel (set into the top portion of the display)
- One round high bar table and one bar stool
- Optional extras such as a full length printed panel, additional stool, zigzag display stand can be arranged at an additional cost
